First you implement your view, then you implement your presenter, then you implement your view holder. This makes your code clean. A good use of MVP-V is to have your list view be an MVP view, and implement an item list. This way you won't have to use an Adapter, and also don't have to worry about instantiating one. The logic to my Presenter, Model, and View isn't very complicated. It's mostly just split my data into three different classes that each have an own method. This way each class can be reused easily, and it makes sure that each class is cleanly separated.!{#sp1.331} !{#sp2.332} !{#sp3.333} !{#sp4.334} !{#sp5.335} Q: SSL certificate for self-hosted website I am trying to do something

The main pharmacological approach in hepatitis C virus (HCV) infection treatment are interferon- α (IFN- α) and ribavirin. However, their effectiveness is not satisfactory, particularly because many patients do not respond well to these treatments. Therefore, new alternatives for HCV treatment are of interest. Among them, the natural compound, trans-resveratrol (RSV), appears promising. This systematic review was conducted to assess the effectiveness and safety of RSV in the treatment of chronic HCV infection. The Cochrane Library, MEDLINE, Scopus, EMBASE, CENTRAL, LILACS, AGRIS and ClinicalTrials.gov were searched from inception to June 2018. Randomized clinical trials comparing RSV and control treatments were included. Two independent authors assessed study eligibility, methodological quality and extracted data. A random-effects model was used for meta-analysis. In total, five eligible studies with 354 patients were selected. There was no significant improvement in the therapeutic response with RSV (relative risk (RR) 1.07, 95% confidence interval (CI) 0.95-1.20). However
