Released as a Humble Game Bundle, Finders Keepers: A Puzzle game, formerly known as The Elden Ring, has been renamed as In a World, and is being developed as an action role-playing game. ABOUT ELDEN RING STRATEGIC PARTNER: A strategic partnership has been formed with Nordeus, the developer of Exploding Kittens. Together, we are creating In a World, the action role-playing game that will continue the series. -- AFTER PUTTING IN MY LAST DAYS OF WORK, I've just recently made a change in the game. I'm keeping this description short for now, since I'm now in college. I'll try to make a longer one soon. The biggest new feature in this revision is of course my new female character ("Mist"), the name of which was chosen through some kick-ass retro-game-style naming/guessing game (I'm not kidding. Anyone who guessed the name Mist that I chose is a champion). She is a brand-new character, and is joined by eleven other existing characters for a total of fifteen playable characters. This number increased through an automatic randomization system, and I am, as of right now, in the process of exporting all the data from the previous build, which means this build is in transition. It will be up to the players to decide how things work out in this one. They have all been updated in a variety of ways, so all fifteen characters are significantly improved in the current version. This is mostly because I really wanted the game to be fully playable by fans of all sorts of RPGs. As such, there are still a few places in the game that aren't really fully playable and have a lot of room for improvement. Most of my time in recent months has gone to polishing those areas up and making them playable. I hope that you can join me on this adventure! ------------------------ The new world map of Tarnished is complete, and will be released alongside the new website. The town of Balthazar Springs is now completely populated, and a lot of work has gone into the main area. All the new game areas are now fully populated, and several new areas have been added to the mix. One of these was a new dungeon, filled with a variety of traps and monsters. As I mentioned, there is now a quest line to explore out in the world, with new characters, enemies and treasures to find.

Elden Ring

- Very nice gameplay and a lot of originality - lovable story and good looking environments - beautiful soundtrack - Controls are easy to manipulate. I really love this game. - Story is basic but its enjoyable. - High difficulty (5 Stars) - Gameplay is fun and is well balanced. - Controls are easy to manipulate. I really love this game. STORY AND ANIMATION: - A lot of mature content - Beautiful art and animation - The story is based on a legend. I feel like there was more story to it, but I can't help but feel like there is some content you can't see or explore unless you unlock it. It is a nice "tale" in the game to see that happen. - The story reminds me of the Warcraft universe. No, it doesn't. It is... not what the "fantasy games" are. It is close to a "sword and sorcery" game, but the story is rather bad. There is a good idea about a story that is told as fragments of the world that the story is about, as the characters are in different places, but everything gets really confusing after that. The world is interesting and the story is good looking, but there are some parts that are a little lame. - Many surprises. - This game is a mix between the gameplay of typical JRPGs and others. Some really good ideas on how to make the action RPG side seem more present, and a lot of things are pulled off really well. Some of the ideas in this game are reused in less successful RPGs in the years since. Although, I love when a new developer has ideas that they attempt to pull off and implement better than those in the previous game. I also love that everything is extremely customizable, even the spelling and grammar of your character's dialogue can be customized from "cool" to "damn." The only problem with this game is that when you're in a battle, the camera goes in the direction of the melee right before you fight, which can lead to getting distracted when playing the game and losing focus. Otherwise, this game has some really nice ideas and that it can learn from other games on how to implement them. GAMEPLAY: - Many weapons and enemies - You can play as a bff6bb2d33

Q: Prove that $\exists x\in F$ such that $\rho(I - xGx) < 1$ F is a fixed field. $G=AB+BA$ and A is nilpotent matrix. $\rho(G)$ is the spectral radius of G. Prove that $\exists x\in F$ such that $\rho(I - xGx) < 1$. Note that I have no idea how to begin. I suppose that I have to use a theorem about the limit of a sequence. A is nilpotent and $\rho(G)=1$. From here what should I do?
