exploring every corner of the procedurally generated levels. Use your intuition and your fighting skills to avoid getting in the way of deadly mines, and stay a step ahead of boss monsters. Experience a roguelike game that is unforgiving. Will you be able to do it? A: What do you want in a RPer: Surprise (I don't care if its a 2D or 3D game, its a rogue-like) Resilience (Usually survivors are unarmed/mined/etc. Are they blind? Dazed? Stupified? Catatonic?) Puzzles (Poke, trip, roll around, and do "I GOTCHA!") What do you want in a Survival (HARDCORE or Hardencore, whatever you prefer) Resilience (See survival's; the OP said he wanted surprise) Luck/Agility/Luck (Well, that too but not as much as in survival) What do you want in a Roguelike (Action or RPG; however you define these terms) Speed (A good Roguelike is the Unreal Tournament or something like it) Shoot/Immersion (Pretty much anything you want; you build the world; Roguelikes are cheap, you don't need to replicate the world the same way most games need to) List based
