TheHunter: Call of the Wild is a brand new, upcoming adventure and survival game for PC, Xbox One and PS4 by Ubisoft Massive and is set in a rich, open world. Embark on an adventure across the wild American West to discover new and exciting locations, meet intriguing characters, and hunt and survive in the wilderness. PAYBACK PAWNSHOP In return for your support of Remi Warren, you can purchase special Remi Warren themed skins and carvings. These emotes will be added to the Hunter's base wardrobe and carvings will be available for purchase from the Hunter's Outpost.You will be able to purchase these skins and carvings from the in-game Payback Pawnshop. PAYBACK STORY In the Remi Warren Hunter DLC, you can hunt as Remi Warren in a variety of different locations across the American West. But then, things happen in life, causing Remi Warren to question everything he thought he knew about life, the world, and ultimately himself. All Remi Warren has ever known is to hunt and the wild, but then one day, a strange man appears in his cabin and there is suddenly a stranger at the door. Where does this stranger come from? What is his mission? Can Remi Warren help him? And what of the things that Remi Warren has hunted? Can the hunter really forget his true nature? Remi Warren Hunter is a free DLC available now and is compatible with both the PlayStation 4 and the Xbox One! What's New -Added new outfits for Remi. -Added new skins and decorative items for the Hunter's base clothing and weapon. -Added new accessories for Remi's bow. -Added a new Achievement. -Added a new location. -Added new chatter for Remi Warren Hunter. -Lowered the difficulty of enemies in the second location. -Improved the behavior of the wolves in the second location. Other Known Issues -The Achievement, Sudden Stop, is sometimes missing after the second location. This will be fixed in the next patch. -The Achievement, Note to Self, is sometimes missing. LOST SPHEAR Demo Game Review Score: 8/10

More Top Shelf Android Apps Last updated on: May 15, 2019

THE LOST SPHEAR DEMO is a fully 3D modelled and experimental conceptual physics platform game, designed and developed with a view to independance of core components.

As a demo, it is a mildly linear adventure that follows traditional platform arcade game mechanics, but with a unique visual and sound effect style inspired and influenced by the works of games and artists such as H.R Giger, Bungie, Bungie, Deus Ex and Deus Ex: Mankind Divided.

The game is developed to show what an ultra highly polygonised version of classic platform games look like, as seen on PS2

Math Password Succumb to the Snares First, because it didn't get any proper email. And even at my slow DSL speed I'm too cheap to bother downloading it. Last years mtg was more fun with a mediocre deck. Second, because I wanted to be lazy and play multiplayer with my friend. He tends to put together expensive fun decks to force you to buy him drinks. Naturally because I have a terrible poker face and cannot hide how I truly feel in regards to buying him drinks. Third, I built from first and second principles, as I tend to do on the way to the latest and greatest standard decks. Fourth, because I have nothing else to do. I play friends of a bad 18 year olds on my Facebook. I compare decks to each other on my own head. I stare out into space on MSN Messenger. I'm still siiiiiiiiiiiiiiiiiiiiiiiiiick. When my friend is actually a contact of mine. Not some random dude that I don't want to see send me photos of panda bears doing people things. Fifth, because I received a message from my friend saying that I might be the third person who could use my decks to abuse my friend. Sixth, because yes I did, I thought I might as well, especially since I re-racked some. Seventh, because really I'm just bored. And tired of being broke, and why was the post I go to, about financial crisis and zombies, the only one that was still post-apocalyptic. So how about that zombies. Eight, because I'm counting up the total number of decks in Mnemosyne-derivative decks. Because I need to have the number preserved in my mind at some point. So it's probably 8, because I could just keep going on like this in a microcosm of the real world. "And so as Washington's days slip away in capitol corridors awash with cocaine, endless Viagra, cocaine, pill-o-rama and cigarettes glowing like so many 1 million watt red and green lights, the few brains in the state's orbit mutate into a poisonous and impenetrable muck, the coffee magically appears in every single public institution but for some reason the urns and their cases are stuffed with moldy coffee with leaves falling off." We may as well ditch poison and
