The following answer is derived from this thread and that of the previous thread: A: One way of getting random unique IDs is to use the AlphanumericStringToInt64 function in VBA.

This function returns a random alphanumeric string, a hexadecimal number, or Int64, which you can use to get an Int64 that you can convert to hex using the ToString function. AlphanumericStringToInt64 (Source: Here's a rough example of how you would use this function: Sub Example nID = Int64(AlphanumericStringToInt64("abc12def3")) msgbox nID'example of converting ID to string End Sub To

Automakers Still Pushing Alternative Fuels, Despite Gas Prices Despite declining oil prices, the oil industry isn't giving up on alternative fuels, instead figuring that the investment could pay off in the long term as consumers look for ways to cut back on gas. For the first time since 2009, there are more than 50 new electric vehicles on the road in the U.S., according to estimates in the latest Plug-In, Drive Smart report from market research firm Global Automakers Intelligence. "As oil prices continue to fall, Americans are voting with their feet," said David Cole, executive director of the Center for Automotive Research. "They want to be good citizens and good consumers." Electric car sales are expected to grow to about 30,000 units this year, a 70 percent increase from 2012, according to the report, with the Dodge Durango and Nissan Armada each selling more than said of the.Q: Bash scripting: Using redirect with variables I'm trying to create an automated test environment. I want to redirect STDOUT of bash script to a text file in a folder. I am reading this link and it is close to what I'm trying to do.

For example: var1=12345 var2="{var1}/test" echo

"var1=${var1}" | tee ~/Desktop/test.txt I want to use the variable ${var1}/test instead of the string "12345/test" Any help is appreciated. Thanks! A: If you want to store the script input and output somewhere else than your script's directory, just open the script's file in a new shell session, and run the script. new_shell_session.sh: #!/bin/bash foo=bar echo "$foo" $ new_shell_session.sh foo=bar $ This will save /tmp/new_shell_session.sh to /tmp/new_shell_session.sh as a new shell session. Just ignore the new file and close the file opened. The echo command and the content of $foo is saved in a new shell environment.

Perfusion CT findings in small-cell carcinoma of the lung: comparison with contrast-enhanced CT and PET. The purpose of our study was to investigate the perfusion CT features of small-cell lung cancer (SCLC) in comparison with contrast-enhanced CT and FDG-PET. Consecutive 35 patients with histologically proven SCLC (male, n = 21; female, n = 14; mean age, 58 years; range, 40-76 years) underwent perfusion CT, contrast-enhanced CT, and FDG-PET. For both small-cell cancers and normal-appearing tissues within tumors, the percentage of parenchymal perfusion, the maximum slope of the contrast-enhanced curve, and the washout parameters (percentage of the region that contributes to washout, half time of washout, and the logarithmic
