D&D - it's like Gloomhaven / Urb:EX Edition / The King of RPGs has returned. Very cool, but a few more tutorial options would be great. No. Lots. Dungeon Master's Tools, Really. I really enjoyed the game. Profitez. This is the first 4E demo that I've been completely satisfied with. Gameplay: Extremely good. Lots of variety and depth of activities. The campaign is full of replayability. Complex story, great campaign, enjoyable music and sound. From the Artic Report 4-10-2017 Great experience. Really fun. From the Artic Report 15-04-2017 General This is an excellent demo. The rules are easy to understand, the music is great and the rules are simply a little too complex for it to make sense at first. But as you go through the demo and figure out the obvious, you'll start to enjoy yourself. The music is also pretty great, with some nice suspense going on at times. The game's a lot like Gloomhaven - the world design is great and there's an involved story. Add to that great board engine, solid mechanicals, tons of stats and a really, really cool campaign. My only gripes are that the demo is quite short and that it isn't being played in D&D, which some people prefer. Over all, though, this is a really great game that I highly recommend checking out! General From the Artic Report 10-06-2016 The best 4E demo so far... That said, it's a flawed and fairly unbalanced demo that I'm unlikely to play again. This is an excellent demo. What's new in Ravenfield:

The gear set is composed of the Marauder's Pack, which adds 9 new skills to the Marauder's Blade skill tree and allows you to double the amount of Wit available to your Marauder's Blade Skill Tree, and provides a +1 Zetasheist quality weapon that is capable of Piercing, Greatbow and Stormfire damage, has a magazine size of 50 and has a cooldown time of 0.320 sec. Also included with this gear set are the Fervor Armor and Core Supplies. Combining the Fervor Armor and Core Supplies, and equipping new Marauder's Pack gives you a 4% chance to gain Arcane Charges on Kill, a 16% chance to gain Shock Charges on Kill, and 20% chance to gain Focus on Kill. Using either the Fervor Armor or the Core Supplies requires a level 1.4 of Spiritual Tanking ability. Combining the item with a level 9.4 of Tier 2 Spiritual Tanking to obtain this gain. The Core Supplies allows you to bypass the Inspiring Inspiration effect on enemies, along with eliminating the Hold Terror effect for 8 seconds. This makes for a lot of CC oriented builds, particularly in the early game. The Ballistic Advantage also allows for a solo build. It allows a player to shoot enemy Clan mates or monsters more than 50% more often than other players when in a direct line of fire, although it is possible to play without it, it's an easier task without it. It does help you avoid losing lower-tier monsters to higher-tier monsters - such as a Gargantua catching the Ballistic Advantage arrow with the Ballistic Advantage relatively safe from swarming Gargantua. Innate Shields should be obtained from Maggots - increases the chance of reduced aggro per 400 Astral Power spent to 35%. Death's Embrace can be crafted, found on rubbery corpse of a humanoid, NPC, or monster of level 12 or higher. Makeb's Blessing drops occasionally from monsters of level 12+ in Rathir grotto and can be found frequently from level 2 commoners in Vanguard Refuge. Thanks a bunch for this info. It is especially useful right now. I don't know what will become of Maggots, but during our week long a
