Pool Panic is the world's least realistic pool simulator. Play as a mischievous, and dare we say, oblivious cue ball in a giant game of pool that sprawls across a colorful cartoon overworld with more than 100 levels.

Explore jungles, deserts, carnivals, cities and more while knocking around a peculiar cast of billiard balls, most of which won't appreciate being pocketed. Note: Pool Panic plays best with a controller Every level of Pool Panic has an 8-ball, but he won't be standing around waiting to be potted. While you seek him out, you'll be occupied by plenty of strange activities involving balls: Ride a Ferris Wheel! Knock off other balls for your own gain! Explore caves where even the bats are balls! Play nine holes of mini-golf with a pool cue!

Flee the zombie horde! But careful, they're contagious! Go skiing and mountain climbing! With balls! Hunt boy scouts in the woods! Steal their hats! Wait. Explore a colorful overworld with more than 100 levels.

Shoot pool in deserts, gardens, cities, the carnival, the woods, and more Get mad at balls that dash away from you, think strategically about when to hit toothy balls that can unleash stomp attacks, and line up the perfect shot. Take down bosses and join a motorcycle gang chase. Unlock higher levels of the central tower as you travel the world. What awaits you at the top? Challenge up to four of your friends in local multiplayer.

Speedrun Instructions for Llyfe: Understand the game's mechanics before beginning the run. This is recommended for those that want to play all modes, especially the speedrun. Trying to trick the system can result in a bad run. This is most common with speedrunning. It's recommended to only focus on gameplay, but if you're only trying to get the speedrun, ask the support channel. When playing this game, do not skimp on restarting between area, especially when trying to open a door/box. The world reacts to your movement and it is easy to miss what you want to click. Trying to access the options during a run can result in the game crashing. Make sure to use the options after completing your run. Be sure to save and restore your game between runs. Speedruns tend to change a lot due to the fact you're playing a custom save and it doesn't have the save data. The options might be different, and if you don't know what options are or if something's wrong with your run, you'll waste a lot of time. Only use items essential for gameplay. Super cheap, cheap and best items may be tempting to use, but it will mess up your run and you can buy them again. Buying things you don't need can't be used in the speedrun, but items you need can be used multiple times in the run. Plenty of Nuki in this run. The game is pretty generous to you, and if you're struggling to get through a level, Nuki is sure to let you know. You can also use Nuki on doors/boxes, which can speed up your run if you know where to find them. Only use one save slot. You have to use a custom save slot to save time. The run isn't sped up by saving after every area. Always know how to exit. If you're having trouble with a door, you may not have the right door. Some doors have a lock which won't open with the right input, while others have a red key to open them. If you know the save location but don't know how to get back to the title screen, make sure you save and use the exit option. For more information, ask the support channel or visit the wiki. For a proper guide, use the wiki, which contains an introduction to the game, instructions on different levels, input strategy, and general speedrunning tips. A long time ago, many moons ago, you was a

Home-brewing has become extremely popular over the last decade because it opens the door to a great fun alternative to wine as an amazing hobby that can even make a career. Home-brewing is a very complex, technical skill that is offered to novices as well as experienced beer makers. The most important consideration is that the beer must be made "clean." Brewing beer offers a great deal of flexibility, as each brewery is going to brew a different beer to suit its own taste and budget. Finding local flavor and smell in beer can be as difficult as in wine. Generally, beer comes in three styles: light, dark and special. Light beer is generally close in flavor to the food that is put in it, but it is stronger in color. This beer should be served in open vessels, like a pitcher or carboy. Darker beer is a balance of the palate that generally comes in stronger flavors, but not so strong as to be overpowering. The consistency of the dark beer is greatly affected by the yeast used. Beer of this style, though not overly alcoholic, is often tasty. It is usually served in bottles or cans. Beers of this style require a great deal of skill and knowledge and are fit for dining in fine restaurants, but they are best for a buffet or picnic. Special beer is much stronger in alcohol content; it is meant for mixing with other alcoholic
