- Class-less Character You can freely choose your own class of characters and choose which class of character you want to play at any point in your adventure in the Lands Between. Your character will evolve along with the quest and the story. □ Classes
Classes:
Fighter: A pure warrior that wields melee weapons. Duelist: A swordmaster who excels in close-ranged combat. Musician: A magic caster that sings spells. Sorcerer: A young Elden wizard known as a prodigy. Seeker: A skilled hunter who uses bows. Druid: A tree witch who crafts potions. Warlock: A hooded mage who casts spell-like abilities.

---

□ Combined Classes Sometimes you can combine classes. If the level of a character combining a class is lower than the existing combined class, the character will not lose the class that they combine with. □ Class Level The level of each class is a factor of the character's level. A character who is set at level 50 will have the same level as a normal character at level 20. In addition, you can select classes that are normally set at max level, even when your character is set at level 0. □Equipables Use the items of various classes to enhance the power of the class that you are currently set at. □Equipable Equipables: Weapon Attribute: Weapon class: Damage: [Single-target attack, Damage + [Armor] - Weapon class] Attributes: Power: [Class-specific abilities] Skills: [Class-specific abilities] You can also combine equipables to have a greater effect. □Equipable +2 class Attribute: +2 class Class: +1 base weapon +1 weapon class Damage: (equipable damage + class damage) Strength: (equipable power + class power) Lesser +1 base weapon: [equipable

---

rank + class rank] □Equipable Attribute You can set the attributes of the equipable that you have equipped to the designated values. □Equipable Class The class of the equipable that you have equipped determines the required attributes and required skills.
□Equipable Rank You can adjust the rank of the equipable that you have equipped, as well as

Q: Don't work bind event on ajax I have two questions: How can I execute a function on a "completed" event of a jquery Ajax? I mean, when the Ajax is complete, don't wait more in the function. And how can I do a "if" statement in the ajax function? For example: function ajaxFunction() { if (loadSucceed) { alert('do something'); } else { alert('do something else'); } } function loadSucceed() { return true; } A: jQuery's ajax calls are by default async. The function return true or false to tell you whether the operation was successful or not Then after you call success: function(data){ } It calls the function. function ajaxFunction() { if (loadSucceed) { alert('do something'); } else { alert('do something else'); } } function loadSucceed() { return true; } After ajax({ type: "POST", url: "LINK", success: function (data) { ajaxFunction(); loadSucceed = false; }, error: function (XMLHttpRequest, textStatus, errorThrown) { loadSucceed = false; } }); The value of loadSucceed will be false, but the ajaxFunction() will be called.
