I searched the file name with the combination of "ffmpeg -i BOOLE.PP.PolyBoard.pp.zip PolyBoard.PP.PolyBoard.in" and failed. All the other methods mentioned in the internet or the application instruction were also unsuccessful. So, please help me.

A: If you downloaded this directly from torrentz.eu, there is a bug in the uploader. Normally there's no official torrents, only free torrents distributed by the uploader or private torrents downloaded with other software. Unfortunately, the torrent links you gave started to auto-download without the option to cancel, for me anyhow. I tried to download it directly, but again I got auto-downloaded torrent. So basically you need to use another software to download them. Q: Node.js - Accessing external drive using Node.js Webserver I am using node.js and express framework to create a web service for my android app. I have an external hard drive which is mapped through Windows OS in a network location. How can I access this drive through the webserver? I know how to connect to a local drive but not the external drive. PS: I am new to node.js so its not hard to understand my question A:

Although your question has already been answered by @tvanfosson, here is a simple way to access a NTFS drive by using fstream.js. var fs = require('fstream'); fs.createReadStream('D:').pipe(fs.createWriteStream('D:/file.txt')); // Creating a read stream that opens at 'D:'. // File contents written to 'D:/file.txt' fs.create 0cc13bf012
