*Drag and drop the icons from the archive or the gallery into your favorite graphics program to use them immediately. I have tried the Free Icons in a couple of apps, but I noticed they are pretty small. I like that the resolution is png. Is this a new quality? I am downloading the paid version now. no it's not new. the 'pretty' version that offers 'pretty' icons, contains 256x256 as default size. the 'big' version, contains 5 icons each, is available for 5icons (256x256) and 15 icons (128x128). I 'expanded' them with the background, so in the 'pretty' version you have lots of pretty icons. but they are not as 'pretty' as the 'pretty' icons. Don't know if it matters but the PNG file I was using was missing the start and end markers. I saved it with notepad++ and the end marker was at the end of the file. I am not sure if the above code will find it, but it did find the missing end marker when I set it to 0x0. On a different note, do they still have the "Create.png" folder in there? The first time I downloaded this, it did not have a Create.png, I have to download the "Happy Green Day" folder as well. You need to download the same.package as before, but on the next page, fill the little form and click on "Download".. ...it is there like.. 30 minutes later. So download it and then do the mentioned 4 steps and it's there. Thanks for the tip. Check this out, I was playing with different sizes of the icons, but the thing is that I need to stop and restart every time I change the size, is there a way to have it start directly the next time you change the size of the icons?
